Ways In Which You Can Help

Education is a partnership between parents and teachers. Parent involvement is both welcomed and encouraged. There are many ways you can become involved if you choose to do so.

School Association

All government schools in Tasmania are required to have a School Association. The Association provides parents, staff and other members of the community with a way to be involved in issues important to the school. Elections are held each year in March to appoint committee members and meetings are held regularly throughout the year. Our School Association helps in a number of ways, such as participating in developing school policy, advising on school management and approving the budget.

Parents and Friends

Joining Parents and Friends (P&F) is a great way to meet other parents and find out how you can contribute to our school community. The P&F explores ways to raise money and looks at ways to spend that money to best support the students. A member of the P&F will also be on the School Association Committee so that any issues raised can be brought to the attention of the School Association.

Parent Help
Teachers always welcome parent help in the classroom and there are many different ways you can help. Please contact your child’s teacher to discuss how best you can give your support.

Please note that adults helping within the school on a volunteer basis will be required to have a Department of Justice Working With Vulnerable People Check. Please contact the school or Service Tasmania if you need support in doing this.

Events
We are always looking for volunteers throughout the year to help with major events such as the sports carnivals.

If you would like to become involved with helping at our school phone the school on 6456 4192 or call into the office and speak to Mardi in the office.

If you are unable to help in the above ways then that is OK. We understand that not all parents are able to do so, but assisting children with home reading programs and/or supervising homework demonstrates your commitment to education.

You can also support the school by placing importance on children’s attendance and by always encouraging your child’s endeavors.
